

Miss Langford Is
Army Officer's Bride

MISS J. M. LANGFORD, of 419 California street, formally announced the engagement of her daughter, Myrtle, to Lieut. Harry Crossberg.

Miss Langford's fiancé has been in the recruiting station in El Paso the past four months, and is leaving to join his regiment in Camp Kearny, San Diego, Cal., on Friday or Saturday. The marriage is to be solemnized just before the groom leaves for his new station. The charming bride elect has resided with her mother, one sister and two brothers, in this city for the past nine years, having graduated from the class of '16 in El Paso high. Later she attended the university at Austin for a year. Her brother, Hal, a with the navy at present in training in San Francisco.

The wedding is to be rather an intimate affair, with Rev. F. Rice, of the First Christian church, officiating. Only the relatives will be numerous for the interesting event.

The Old Judge Believes in Reciprocity

COUNTY NOT TO
LEVY BOND TAX

Redemption of Debt on Government Hill Up to City Government Now.

An agreement has been made by the county commissioners whereby the county will not make any 1918 levy for bond redemption in that part of Concordia school district which was taken into El Paso with the addition of Government Hill.

County Judge E. B. McClintock said Wednesday that an agreement would be made whether the city will pay to the county the proportionate amount of the bond redemption money for the assessed valuation of the district involved. Accordingly, county assessor John T. Cain has been instructed to make a report to the county commission on the total assessment of the Concordia school district and on that part which is now in the El Paso independent school district.

City Refunds 1917 Levy.

Investigation by city attorney J. H. McBrook has developed that the people of the affected area are paying this year to the county only a 12 cent bond redemption levy and are not being required to pay a county school maintenance tax, inasmuch as they are paying city maintenance taxes. Accordingly, the city will refund to those so paying the 12 cent levy all sums paid thereby to the county for 1917.

CIRCUSES COME

Shows Will Not Be Hampered Next Year, Circus Man Here, Understands.

"The United States is looking for business for the railroads just as the railroads have been looking for it," Harold Busha, secretary of the treasury, McAdoo, as director of railroads, has told the showmen of the country. As a result, Mr. Busha, who is traffic manager for the Parker shows, of Leavenworth, Kan., says the shows now wintering here will not go to Leavenworth to be disbanded or sent out on motor trucks, but that they are planning their tour for next year, and he looks for all the circuses to be out as usual, contrary to reports that have come from the east.

Spenders $20,000 Here.

"Mr. Parker will spend about $20,000 in El Paso rebuilding his shows," said Mr. Busha. "We are now working about 25 men regularly on our show fronts, wagons and tents at the big warehouse we have rented on East Missouri street."

Romance of Show World.

There is a story behind the origin of Kemp's "Model City." Several years ago there were three of the Kemp boys—Fred, Irvin and Bruce, and they traveled with circuses and carnivals, exhibiting a mechanical "Niagara Falls," which their father had designed. Fred and Irvin were caught beneath the wreckage of a circus train and were killed. Bruce, who had a little daughter, a mere baby, with them. They managed to throw the baby out of the train, and the train was wrecked and she was saved. Irvin was badly burned in the wreck, and Bruce was killed. Bruce's little daughter, a mere baby, was rescued by a woman named "Model City."

Circuses Plan Arrival

By Motors, Not Freight

Peru, Ind., Jan. 22.—The motorization of circuses, which has been in connection with government control of railroads, is another serious phase of the circus business this year.

The John Robinson shows, which have spent thousands of dollars here for circus winter quarters, is the first circus to give serious consideration to the motor plan.

Other circuses, such as the Ringling Brothers, Barnum & Bailey and Hagenbeck-Wallace, also have been advised by the government that transportation this year cannot be guaranteed.
